Lineage.

This is a branch of the illustrious House of Howard, springing from Thomas, 4th Duke of Norfolk, and his 2nd wife Margaret, only dau. and heiress of Thomas, Lord Audley of Walden, K.G., through their eldest son,

LORD THOMAS HOWARD, b. 24 Aug. 1561, the heir of his mother's estates, and a distinguished naval officer in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH. His lordship was restored in blood (his father) the duke, having been attainted and beheaded in 1572, by act of parliament in the 27th year of her majesty; and in twelve years afterwards, 24 Oct. 1597, summoned to parliament, as Lord Howard, of Walden. His lordship was created EARL OF SUFFOLK, 21 July, 1603, and installed a knight of the Garter. To his lordship's vigilance the discovery of the Gunpowder Plot has been mainly attributed. His lordship was elected chancellor of the university of Cambridge in 1613, and constituted lord-high-treasurer of England in the following year; of which high office he was deprived in 1618. His lordship m. 1st, Mary (who d. 7 April, 1578), sister and co-heiress of George, 5th Lord Dacre, of Gillesland, but had no issue. He m. 2ndly, circa 1583, Catherine (the lady who incurred the censure of the Star-chamber), eldest dau. and co-heir of Sir Henry Knevet, Knt. of Charlton, and widow of Hon. Richard Rich, eldest son of Lord Rich, by whom (who d. in Sept. 1633) he had (with other issue),

I. THEOPHILUS, his successor.
II. Thomas, who succeeded to the inheritance of his mother at Charlton, co. Wilts, and being master of the horse to CHARLES, Prince of Wales, was elevated to the peerage, as Lord Howard, of Charlton, and Viscount Andover, 23 Jan. 1621-2; installed a knight of the Garter, 16 Dec. 1625, and created EARL OF BERKSHIRE, 7 Feb. 1625-6. This nobleman, during the civil wars, espoused with great zeal the royal cause, and subsequently lived in retirement until the restoration of the monarchy, when, in consideration of his fidelity, be obtained a grant, heritable by his son, Sir Robert Howard, of the farm of the revenue of post-fines, for forty-eight years, from 1660, for the yearly rent of £2,276. His lordship m. Elizabeth, one of the daus. and co-heiresses of William, Earl of Exeter, by whom he had nine sons and four daus., viz.,

Earldom of Sutherland.

It is stated by some Scottish writers that the Earldom of Sutherland is the most ancient in North Britain, and that it was originally created in 1057. It is certainly rivalled in antiquity only by the famous Earldom of Mar, since it has descended through more than twenty generations to its present possessor. Douglas, in his Peerage of Scotland, deduces the descent of this illustrious House from Freskin, a person of note, and originally of a Flemish family, who settled in Scotland in the reign of David I, and received from that generous prince the lands of Strathbrock, co. Linlithgow. He attained eminence by the skill and courage he displayed in suppressing the insurrection of the Moray men in 1130, and was rewarded for those services by the grant of some of the most fertile of the lowlands of Moray. Of the two sons of Freskin, William, the elder, was a trusted and constant attendant of King WILLIAM I. He d. towards the end of the 12th century, leaving two sons, of whom the elder, Hugh, acquired the territory of Sutherland, which had been forfeited by Hugh, Earl of Caithness, for his rebellion in 1197. Hugh Freskin d. in 1204. His son,

WILLIAM, styled Dominus de Sutherlandia, took a prominent part in the suppression of Gillespoc's insurrection in 1228, and it was on this occasion that the gratitude of Alexander II. raised William to the Earldom of Sutherland. Sir Robert Gordon states that the 1st Earl fell fighting at Halidon Hill, 19 July, 1333, leaving by his wife, a dau. of the Earl of Mar, two sons, of whom the younger, Nicol, was progenitor of the Sutherlands, Barons Duffus. The elder son,

WILLIAM, 4th earl, m. Margaret, dau. of King Robert Bruce, and sister of David II, who, by charter in 1345, raised the Earldom of Sutherland into a regality. The earl d. in 1370. His grandson,

WILLIAM, 5th earl, is particularly mentioned by Froissart as being present at the descent upon Berwick made by the Scots in 1384. His son,

ROBERT, 6th earl, was sent to England as hostage for King JAMES I during the temporary release of that monarch from his imprisonment. He m. Mabel Dunbar, dau. of John, Earl of Moray, and granddau. of the heroic Agnes Randolph, Countess of Moray and March. He d. in 1422, deeply regretted by the Sutherlanders, whom he had defended against oppression and tyranny. He was s. by his son,

JOHN, 7th earl, who m. Margaret, celebrated for her great beauty, dau. of Sir William Baillie of Lamington, by whom he had issue, with a dau., Marjory, who m. William Sinclair, Earl of Orkney, a son,

JOHN, 8th earl, who s. in 1460, and m. Margaret Macdonald, dau. of Alexander, Earl of Ross and Lord of the Isles, by whom, who was drowned while attempting to cross the ferry of Unes, he had a son,

JOHN, 9th earl, who d.s.p., and a dau.,

ELIZABETH, who, 3 Oct. 1514, was served and returned heir of her brother as Countess of Sutherland in her own right, being then the wife of the Hon. Adam Gordon, 2nd son of George, 2nd Earl of Huntly. According to the custom of those days, her husband was styled Earl of Sutherland, being "tenant by courtesy" of that honour. In a charter granted by him in March, 1525, to William Sutherland of Duffus, he is designated "Adam Gordon, Comes de Sutherland," though he signs his name only as "Adam Gordon, with my hand at the pen"; while the signature of his wife reads, "Elizabeth Countess of Sutherland with my hand at the pen." The Countess d. at Aboyne Castle in Sept. 1535, having had issue by her husband, who survived till 17 March, 1537, four sons,

I. ALEXANDER, 9th earl.
II. John, whose only child m. George Gordon of Cochlarachie.
III. Adam; fell at the battle of Pinkie, 10 Sept. 1547, unm.
IV. Gilbert, who m. Isabel Sinclair, dau. of the Laird of Dunbeath. This unhappy lady will be mentioned presently as the destroyer of the 10th earl and his countess.

ALEXANDER s. his mother as 9th earl, and m. Lady Helen Stewart, eldest dau. of John, 4th Earl of Atholl, which lady m. 2ndly, Hugh Kennedy of Girvanmains, and 3rdly, Henry, 1st Lord Methven. His lordship d. (says Douglas) in the flower of his youth, 15 Jan. 1529, loved by all, and leaving an impression of his worth on every mind. He had issue,

3. JOHN, 10th earl.
II. Alexander, killed by a fall from his horse at Elgin, in 1552.
I. Janet, m. in 1557 to Sir Patrick Dunbar.
II. Beatrice, m. William Sinclair, of Dunbeath.

JOHN, 10th earl, was one of the nobles who accompanied the Queen Regent to France in Sept. 1550. On a charge, however, of complicity in the Earl of Huntly's rebellion in 1562, his titles and estates were forfeited and he retired to Flanders, where he won universal popularity and esteem. His forfeiture was rescinded, 19 April, 1567, and he d. in the following July, under tragical circumstances. While at Helmisdale Castle, on a visit to his uncle Gilbert's widow, Isabel Sinclair, whose only child was heir to the Sutherland earldom after the reigning peer and his son Alexander, that lady, in her eagerness to see her boy possessed at once of wealth and dignity, attempted to destroy her guests by means of poison, which she mixed with the ale that was served at supper. The earl's heir escaped in consequence of his fortunate detention at a hunting party, for the earl, having fallen ill, and suspecting poison to be the cause of his sufferings, forbade his son, on his late return home, to eat of the supper which had been kept for him. The earl and countess returned to Dunrobin, where they both d. five days afterwards, while their treacherous kinswoman, after being tried for murder and sentenced to death, escaped execution by destroying herself in the prison of Edinburgh, in Aug. 1567. The 10th earl, who was called "the Good Earl John," was thrice m., 1st to Lady Elizabeth Campbell, only dau. of Colin, 3rd Earl of Argyll, and widow of the Earl of Moray, natural son of JAMES IV; 2ndly to Lady Helen Stewart, dau. of John, 3rd Earl of Lennox, and relict of William, 3rd Earl of Errol; and 3rdly to Marian, dau. of George, 4th Lord Seton, and widow of John, 4th Earl of Menteith, and left issue by his 3rd wife, a son, ALEXANDER, 11th earl, b. in 1552, who, during his minority, was left in the care of George, Earl of Caithness, an unprincipled nobleman, who carried the young earl away and m. him, at 16, to his own dau., Barbara-Sinclair, a profligate woman of 32. Alexander, however, divorced this unsuitable wife in 1573, and in the Dec. of that year, m. Lady Jean Gordon, dau. of George, 4th Earl of Huntly, Lady Jean having been previously m. to the notorious James Hepburn, Earl of Bothwell, who divorced her to make way for his tragical marriage with the ill-fated Queen Mary. By this lady, who m. 3rdly, Alexander Ogilvy of Boyne, and d. aged 84, 14 May, 1629, the Earl, who d. 6 Dec. 1594, had, to survive infancy, two sons, of whom the younger, Sir Robert Gordon of Gordonstoun, is celebrated as the historian of his house. The elder son,

JOHN, 12th earl, b. 20 July, 1576, m. in Feb. 1600, Agnes, dau. of Alexander, 4th Lord Elphinstone, by whom (who d. 18 Sept. 1619) he had issue, SYKES.

SYKES, SIR FREDERIC-HENRY, of Basildon, co. Berks; late capt. 11th hussars, and Royal Horse-Guards Blue; b. 12 Feb. 1826; s. his brother as 5th baronet, 1866; m. 5 Jan. 1867, Miss Caroline Bettesworth, of Hayling, Hants, and has had,

Caroline-Eva-Henrietta, b. 30 April, 1872.
Violet-Anne-May, b. 5 Aug. 1880.

Lineage.

THE name of Sykes, is derived from he Anglo-Saxon sich, interpreted by Somner as sulcus aquarius, a water-course, or water-furrow. Northern topography abounds with the word syke, which is usually applied to a small running stream, or rivulet. The arms in use from a remote period, are derived from the same source, being:—"Argent, a chev. sa., between three heraldic fountains, or sykes."

Thoresby says, the Sykeses of Leeds "sprung from these of the name at Sykes' Dyke, near Carlisle (whose servants wore the Branded Bull* as their badge)."

Extant documents, in Latin and in English, prove that some of them were located at Flockton, in the parish of Thornhill, near Leeds, about the year 1200, when Agnes del Sicke acquired lands at "Floketon," adjoining those previously held by William del Sicke: that in 1343 (18 Edw. III., John del Syk, of "Fflokton," conveyed ancestral lands, there, to his son, Michael; that in 1559, (4 Edw. VI.) John Sykys conveyed tenements and land in Flockton; with remainder to his eldest son, Charles, and second son, William; that in 1577, (19 Eliz.) Charles Sykys, whose wife's name was Christian, sold certain pastures in Nether Flockton: and that some of the descendants of William Sykys, who settled at Leeds as a clothier, held for a considerable period, lands at Flockton.

In 1576 (18 ELIZ.), the wills of Richard and William Sykes, of the Kirkgate in Leeds, clothiers, name William, their father, as surviving: they also mention their brothers, James and Edmund, as living at Leeds. Richard, who was the third son, left (with other issue) a son, Richard, who was among the earlier Mayors of Leeds, and founded the great mercantile family of his name. In 1581 (23 Eliz.), George Sykes, of Vicar Lane and the Kirkgate (born before the commencement of the parish registers), married Elizabeth Hodgson; and their youngest son, George, baptized in 1588, became ancestor of the family of Sykes of Dryglington, near Leeds.

TALBOT DE MALAHIDE.

Talbot of Malahide, Baron (Richard-Wogan Talbot), and Lord Malahide, of Malahide, co. Dublin, Ireland; Baron Talbot de Malahide, United Kingdom, hereditary lord-admiral of Malahide and the seas adjoining; late lieut. 9th lancers; b. 28 Feb. 1846; s. his father as 5th baron, 1883; m. 26 June, 1873, Emily-Harriet, youngest dau. of Sir James Boswell, 2nd bart. of Auchinleck, and has a son, James-Boswell, b. 18 May, 1874.

Lineage.

The castle and lordship of Malahide, on the sea-coast, near Dublin, have been possessed by the family of Talbot from a period contemporary with the first introduction of English government into Ireland, and at this moment they furnish an instance unusually rare, of a baronial estate having continued for upwards of 650 years in the male heirs and name of him on whom it had been originally conferred by Henry II. It is remarkable, too, that of the ancient seigniorial estates in Ireland, whose lords were vested with the dignity of parliamentary barons, not one can be traced to have been held directly and immediately under the crown but the Lordship of Malahide. In this respect Malahide seems to have been unique in Ireland, and its lords, pursuant to the nature of their original tenure and the terms of their royal charters, never rendered homage, suit, or service, to any but the crown, nor acknowledged any superior but the King of England alone. Richard de Talbott, who is mentioned in Domesday-Book, was the common ancestor of the Lords of Malahide and of the Earls of Shrewsbury; and in consequence of the well-known affinity of those two branches, the family in Ireland, by ancient entails and settlements, made the members of the house of Shrewsbury next heirs in remainder to their Irish estates.

Richard Talbot, "Chevalier," was Lord of Malahide in the reign of Henry II. and after that monarch conferred the dominion of Ireland on his son, Prince (subsequently King) John, Sir Richard obtained a confirmatory grant of his lordship, with Sac and Soc, Tol and Them, infangthef, and the judgement of Water, and of Iron, the Duel, the Pit, the Gallows, and all other the appendages of civil and criminal jurisdictions as possessed by the baronage of that day, to hold to him and his heirs by rendering to the king the service of one archer with a horse and coat-of-mail for ever. Sir Richard had also confirmed to him the advowson of the church of Malahide, and having the year 1193, presented his brother, Walter Talbot, benefice, he died, leaving two sons, Reginald and The elder,

Reginald Talbot, being a minor at his fath cease, the wardship of the estates devolved to the and during his nonage, Walter his uncle, having d church became vacant, whereupon Henry de L Archbishop of Dublin, then acting as justiciary, governor of Ireland, appointed a clerk to the be right of the king, as is set forth in an ancient inq Reginald soon after died without issue, and was su by his brother and heir,

JOSEPH-HENRY-BERNARD, b. 18 Jan. 1890.

Lineage.

This family—one, it is stated, of importance in the co. of Hants before the Norman conquest—is stated, in some accounts, to have derived its surname from the river Itchen, at the head of which it had possessions, and thence was denominated DE ITCHENBORNE, which time has reduced to the present appellation of TICHBORNE; but this derivation is objected to, and another suggested, viz., Tich and Borne.

SIR ROGER DE TICHEBURNE, Knt., of Ticheburne, who flourished in the reign of HENRY II., m. Mabell, only dau. and heiress of Ralph de Lamerston, of Lamerston, in the Isle of Wight, by whom he acquired that estate; and was s. by his son,

SIR WALTER DE TICHBORNE, Knt., who was s. by his son,

SIR ROGER DE TICHBORNE, Knt., who d. s. p., and was s. by his brother.

SIR JOHN DE TICHBORNE, Knt. a person of great eminence, who represented the co. of Southampton in parliament in the 9th and 10th year of King EDWARD II., and was sheriff of that shire in the 14th year of the same reign. He was also one of the king's justices-itinerant. Sir John d. in 1338, and was s. by his son ROGER DE TICHBORNE, who m. Katherine, dau. (by Sibilla, his wife) of Roger Loveday, and sister and co-heir of Richard Loveday. The son of this marriage, ROGER DE TICHBORNE, left an only son and heir, SIR JOHN DE TICHBORNE, Knt., from whom lineally descended.

SIR BENJAMIN DE TICHBORNE, Knt., of Tichborne, who was sheriff of Southampton in the 21st and in the last year of Queen ELIZABETH, and knight of that shire in the 35th year of the same. This gentleman, so soon as he had intimation of the death of the Queen, repaired immediately to Winchester, and without any orders from the administration, proclaimed, in his capacity of high-sheriff, the accession of King JAMES I. to the crown of England; for which important service the new monarch conferred upon his four sons the honour of knighthood, and upon himself the castle of Winchester in fee-farm. and the dignity of a Baronet, 8 March, 1620. Sir Benjamin m. 1st, Miss Shelley, of Maple Durham, Oxon, and 2ndly, Amphilis, dau. of Richard Weston, Esq. of Roxwell, co. i. Alison-Margaret, b. 29 July, 1883.

Lineage.

The family of Sandilands take their name from their earliest possession of the lands of Sandilands in Douglasdale. James, of Sandilands, in the 14th century, obtained in marriage Alionora, sister of William, 1st Earl of Douglas, and widow of Alexander Bruce, Earl of Carrick (afterwards wife successively to Sir Duncan Wallace of Sundrum, and Sir Patrick Hepburn, of Hailes), and got from his brother-in-law the lands of Calder, to be held from him. He had, with a dau., Marion, m. to Sir Gilbert Kennedy, of Dunure, a son,

James Sandilands, who m. 1384, Princess Joan, dau. of Robert II., and widow of Sir John Lyon, of Glamis. He was induced by the influence of Margaret, Countess of Angus and Mar, to renounce his prospect of succession to the unentailed Douglas estates in favour of George, Earl Angus, natural son of that lady by William, 2nd Earl of Douglas, a transaction confirmed by Robert III., in 1397. His son, James Sandilands, of Calder, a hostage for James I. in 1421, became, by the death of James, 2nd Earl of Douglas, at Otterburn, and of Isabel, Countess of Mar, in 1407, heir of line of the Douglas family; and though deprived, as has been seen, of the estates, he and his descendants have ever quartered the Douglas arms. Lineage.

This family is one of great antiquity in the co. of Kent. Its honours were, however, founded since the Revolution by the celebrated ADMIRAL GEORGE BYNG (eldest son of John Byng, Esq. of Wrotham, by his wife, Philadelphia Johnson, of Loans, in Surrey), one of the most distinguished officers in the naval annals of Great Britain, who received the honour of knighthood from Queen ANNE, 22 Oct. 1704; was created a Baronet, 19 Nov. 1715; and elevated to the peerage 21 Sept. 1721, by the titles of Baron Byng and VISCOUNT TORRINGTON, having been previously constituted rear-admiral of Great Britain and treasurer of the navy. In 1725, his lordship was installed one of the knights-companions of the Bath on the revival of that very ancient order; and in 1727, he was appointed first Lord Commissioner of the Admiralty. He m. in 1691, Margaret, dau. of James Master, Esq. of East Langdon, co. Kent, and by her, who d. 1756) had eleven sons and four daus.; of whom there survived him,

Lineage.

This family derives its surname from the lordship of Anneslei, co. Nottingham, where its patriarch, RICHARD DE ANNESLEI, was seated at the time of the general survey.

ROBERT ANNESLEY, Esq., eldest son of George Annesley, Esq. of Newport Pagnell, Bucks, and the descendant of the marriage of Sir John Annesley, M.P. for Notts, with Isabel, sister and co-heir of Sir John Chandos, K.G., was a naval officer in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, and also a captain in her majesty's army raised to suppress the Earl of Desmond's rebellion: after which he became an undertaker in the plantation of Munster. He m. Beatrice, dau. of John Cornwall, Esq. of Moor Park, co. Hereford, and was s. by his eldest son, Sir Francis Annesley, Knt., who filled for forty years several of the highest official situations in Ireland. In 1606, he was appointed comptroller over the clerk of the works; in 1607, made joint clerk of the council, and keeper of the signet in the province of Munster; and in 1612, constituted constable of the castle of Mountnorris. In the next year he represented the co. of Armagh in parliament; and in 1616, became one of the principal secretaries of state for Ireland, and was sworn of the privy council; but the office being granted without fee, he had a reversionary patent, dated 8 June, 1618, of the secretaryship and custody of the privy-signet, on the avoidance or death of Sir Dudley North, whereupon he resigned the reversionary grant of the muster-master-generalship, which he had previously obtained. Upon the institution of the order of Baronets of Ireland, Sir Francis Annesley was the second person upon whom that dignity was conferred, 7 Aug. 1620; and in the following year Sir Francis obtained a reversionary grant, by patent, dated 11 March, 1621, of the Irish Viscounty of Valentia, at the decease of the then viscount, Sir Henry Power. He was put, however, into the more immediate possession of a peerage, being created Baron Mountnorris, of Mountnorris, co. Armagh, 8 Feb., 1628. Percy-Romilly, b. 1871.

Sybil-Alice, b. 22 Oct. 1875; d. 20 Aug. 1876.

Lineage.

This ancient family derive their name from Walsham, or South Walsham, in Norfolk, in which county, as also in Suffolk, they held large estates from the 11th to the close of the 15th century.

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Presteigne, claiming descent from the old Norman stock, obtained considerable possessions in Radnorshire by his marriage with Mary, granddau. and co-heiress of Sir Jenkin Hervey, Knt. of Llanvair co. Montgomery; and by her left at his decease, in 1473, a son and successor,

RICHARD WALSHAM, Esq. of Presteigne, who m. Eleanor Powell, and was s. in 1496 by his only son,

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Presteigne, who m. Jane, dau. and co-heiress of Thomas Chapman, Esq. of Discoed, a Herefordshire justice of the peace; and dying in 1524, left a son and successor,

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Presteigne; who m. Anne, dau. of Morgan Williams (and sister of Sir Richard Williams, alias Cromwell, ancestor of the Protector), and was s. in 1557 by his eldest son,

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Presteigne; m. Anne, dau. of Peter Lloyd, Esq. of Boultibroke, sheriff of the co. of Radnor in 1548 and 1557; and dying in 1599, was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Presteigne; who having m. Barbara, dau. and heiress of Francis Knill, Esq. of Knill Court, co. Hereford (the lineal descendant of Sir John de Knill, Knt., Lord of Knill in the 12th century), became possessed of that ancient inheritance, in which he was s. in 1639, by his eldest son,

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Knill Court, who was summoned, in 1643, to do knightly service for the manor of Knill, by attending the king in his wars. He m. Margaret, dau. of Roger Lyde, Esq. of Lyde's Court, co. Hereford; and dying in 1648, was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Knill Court, sheriff of the co. of Radnor in 1653. This gentleman m. Joanna, dau. of John Jones, Esq. of Llandetty Court, co. of Brecon, and sister of Col. Jenkin Jones, a noted puritan leader, and was s. in 1667 by his only son,

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Knill Court, sheriff of the co. of Radnor in 1670. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Lygon, Knt. of Madresfield Court (ancestor of the Earls of Beauchamp), but by her had no issue; and 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Childe, Knt. of Kinlet, in Shropshire; and dying in 1695, was s. by his only son,

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Knill Court, deputy-lieut. of the co. of Radnor. He m. Hester, elder dau. and eventually co-heiress (with her sister, Annaretta, the wife of Thomas Clutton, Esq. of Pensax) of Sir John Morgan, Bart. of Kinnersley Castle, in Herefordshire, M.P. for that co., and governor of Chester, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.
Thomas, of Mahollam, Herefordshire; d. unm. in 1764.

He was s. in 1734, by his elder son,

JOHN WALSHAM, Esq. of Knill Court, deputy-lieut. of the co. of Radnor; who having m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heiress of Alderman Ford, of Hereford, d. in 1751, without issue male, when his only child,

ELIZABETH WALSHAM, became the sole heiress and representative of the Knills and Walshams, who had been lords of the manor and parish of Knill since the reign of HENRY II., she was m. in 1767, to Francis Garbett,* Esq. of Huntington Park in Herefordshire, sheriff of the co. of Radnor, in 1790, and had,

JOHN, her heir, who assumed the name of his maternal ancestors.
Anne, m. to the celebrated Sir Samuel Romilly, Knt., M.P. for Westminster; and d. in 1818; her husband, distracted by grief, surviving her but three days. Both were buried together at Knill.
Mary, m. to John Whittaker, Esq. of Newcastle Court, co. Radnor.
Sophia, m. to William Davies, Esq. of Cabalva, co. Radnor and d. s. p. in 1838.

She was s. at her decease, in 1779, by her only son,

JOHN GARBETT-WALSHAM, Esq. of Knill Court, col. of the Royal Radnor militia, and deputy-lieut. of the cos. of Hereford and Radnor, b. 26 June, 1771. Col. Walsham m. 21 June, 804, Anna-Maria (who d. 29 March, 1863), dau. and sole heiress

* Francis Garbett, the baronet's paternal grandfather, and only son of Samuel Garbett, Esq. of Pool Hall, co. Warwick (whose only dau. m. Sir Charles Gascoigne, and was mother of Anne, Countess of Haddington), was the lineal descendant and heir male of Robert Garbett, Esq. of Acton Burnel, in Shropshire, exon of the yeomen of the guard in 1486, and the collateral descendant and heir-general of John Vesey, Bishop of Exeter, from 1519 to 1554, and lord warden of the Welsh marches.

o Hugh Hughes, Esq. of Bodwryn, in Anglesey (a gentleman paternally descended from the British Princes of Wales), by Anna, his wife, granddau. and co-heir of Robert Coytmore, Esq. of Coytmore; and d. in 1819, leaving issue,

I. Sir John-James, of Knill Court, b. 6 June, 1805, who was created a baronet, 30 Sept. 1831, in consideration of his being the eldest co-heir and representative of Gen. Sir Thomas Morgan, Bart., whose title (extinct since 1768) was conferred upon him, in 1660, as a reward for his great military services, and especially "for his zeal in forwarding the Restoration." Sir John was deputy-lieut. of the counties of Hereford and Radnor, high-sheriff co. Radnor in 1870, one of the Poor-law inspectors, major Hereford militia, &c. He m. 25 May, 1826, Sarah-Frances, 2nd dau. of Matthew Bell, Esq. of Woolsington House, Northumberland (nephew of the Lords Auckland and Henley), and by her (who d. 19 Aug. 1857) had issue,

i. John, present baronet.

ii. Francis (Rev.), M.A., b. 9 April, 1832; m. 29 June, 1865, Marianne, eldest dau. of Charles-James Barnett, Esq. of Bays Lawn, co. Lineage of Wauchope.

JOHN WAUCHOPE, second son of Sir John Wauchope, Niddrie, by his wife Anne Hamilton, of Redhouse, christened in 1633, when King CHARLES I. was in Scotland who took from his own neck and put round that of the child, a most beautiful gold and enamel chain, which is still in the possession of the family. This John Wauchope got a charter of Edmonstone 9 June, 1671, having acquired that estate by his wife Anna, dau. of James Rait, of Edmonstone, by his second wife Anna, dau. of Alexander Hay of Monkton. In 1672, this gentleman was appointed a lord of session, as Lord Edmonstone, when Charles Maitland of Hatton, brother to the Duke of Lauderdale, was superseded; but having disobliged King JAMES II. by voting against a scheme of educating the young Marquess of Montrose in the Roman catholic faith, was displaced in 1688. This was the more remarkable, as Lord Edmonstone's brother, Andrew Wauchope, of Niddrie, was a Roman Catholic. Lord Edmonstone had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.
II. ANDREW, successor to his brother.

Lineage.

This noble house traces its descent in the male line to a family which is stated to have flourished in Normandy for a century and a half before the Conquest of England, and obtained its surname from having held the high and powerful office, in that principality, of LE GROVENOUR (Collins' Peerage). The founder of the English Grosvenors, Gilbert Le Grosvenor came over in the train of the CONQUEROR. So far back as the reign of RICHARD II., proof of the antiquity and distinction of the Grosvenors was given in the famous controversy which then arose, between Sir Richard Scrope and Sir Robert Grosvenor, as to the right to bear a particular coat of arms. (See SIR BERNARD BURKE'S Reminiscences.) The Visitation of the co. Warwick (1619) commences with

GILBERT LE GROSVENATOR, Miles, therein stated to have been nephew of Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester. He was father of ROBERT, whose son, HENRY, had a son, RAUFE, father of RICHARD, who was s. by his son,

ROBERT LE GROSVENOR, who, by his 1st wife, Emma, dau. of William Moberly, had a son, ROBERT, his heir; and by his 2nd wife, Alice (who m. 2ndly, William Skelton), another son, ancestor of GROSVENOR, of Budworth. He was buried in the church of Budworth, and was s. by his son,

SIR ROBERT LE GROSVENOR, Knt., escheator of Chester, anno 7 EDWARD III., m. Emma, dau. of Warine le Mainwaring, of Over-Peover, co. Chester, and was s. by his son,

RAUFE LE GROSVENOR, Lord of Hulme, co. Chester (whose only sister m. 1st, John Hatton, and 2ndly, Raufe Vernon, 19 EDWARD III.), who was s. by his son,

Sir Robert Le Grosvenor, Lord of Hulme, the defendant in the Scrope and Grosvenor controversy, m. 1st, Jane, dau. of Sir John Danyel, Knt. of Tabley, who d. s. p.; and 2ndly, Julian, dau. and heir of Sir Robert Pulford, by whom he had Thomas (Sir), his heir. Lineage.

It appears from an ancient pedigree that the ancestors of the Earls of Westmorland and of the Dukes of Cleveland originally wrote their surname Vane, and that they were descended from Howell ap Vane, of Monmouthshire, who lived long antecedently to the Conquest. The immediate progenitor, however, of these noble houses,

John Vane, of Hilden, co. Kent, lived temp. Henry VI., and had a grant during that reign of the manor of Hadlee, in the same county. He m. Isabel, dau. of John Darell, Esq., and had (with three daus.) four sons, Henry, who d. without issue, in the 25th of Henry VIII.

Richard, progenitor of the family now before us.
Thomas.
John, ancestor of the Duke of Cleveland (see Barnard, B.).

The 2nd son,

Richard Fane, Esq. of Badsell in Tudeley, in Kent, inherited the manor of Snergate, with other extensive possessions, from his father, and was residuary legatee of his elder brother, Henry. He m. Agnes, dau. and heiress of Thomas Stidolph, Esq. of Badsell; and dying in 1540, was s. by his only son,

I. Generis-Alma-Windham, b. 27 May, 1889.

II. Æira-Helen, b. 2 Jan. 1891.

Lineage.

This eminent family, in common with the royal house of Tudor, LLOYDS of Plymog, MORGANS of Golden Grove, LORD MOSTYN, and other distinguished lines, derives from

MARCHUDD AP CYNAN, Lord of Abergeleu, in Carnarvon, cotemporary with Rhodri Mawr, King of Wales, who s. to the throne in 843, and d. in 877. From Marchudd derived

EDNYNFED VYCHAN, lord of Brynffenigl, in Denbighland, a powerful noble of his time, who m. twice; 1st, Tangwystyl, dau. of Llowarch ap Bran, lord of Menai, in Anglesey, cotemporary with Owen Gwynedd, Prince of North Wales. and by her had, with other issue,

I. Tudor (Sir), ap Ednyfed Vychan; of whose line we have to treat.

II. Kendrick ap Ednyfed Vychan, who had a moiety of Creuthyn: from whom derived the Lloyds, of Plymog in Yale, co. Denbigh, and eventually of Gwerclas and Bashall, a full pedigree of whom will be found in Burke's Landed Gentry, Edition 1868.

Ednyfed Vychan m. 2ndly, Gwenllian, dau. of Rhys ap Griffith, Lord of South Wales, representative of the Sovereign Princes of South Wales, and had by her, with other issue, a son, III. Grono ap Ednyfed Vychan, Lord of Tref-Gastel, ancestor of the Royal House of Tudor.

The eldest son of Ednyfed Vychan by his 1st marriage, viz.,

Sir Tudor ap Ednyfed Vychan, of Nant and Llangynhafal, was one of the commissioners for the conclusion of peace between Edward I, King of England, and Llewelyn ap Iorwerth, King of North Wales. He m. Alice, dau. of Richard, son of Cadwallader, 2nd son of Griffith ap Cynan, King of North Wales (see Wynn of Gwydyr, under Williams-Wynn, Bart.) and was father of Heilin ap Sir Tudor, Knt., who m. Agnes, dau. of Bleddyf Lord of Dinmael, in Denbighland, living 25 May, 2nd Henry III, 3rd son of Owain Brogyntyn, lord of Edeirnion, Dinmael, and Abertanat, son of Madoc, last Prince of Powys. By this lady, Heilin had issue, Griffith ap Heilin.

Grono ap Heilin, whose grandson, Robert ap Griffith, was father of a dau. and heir, Catherine, who m. Hoel Vychan ap Madoc, derived from Madoc of Gloddaeth.

Angharad, m. 1st, Grono Llwyd-y-Penwyn, of the lineage of Marchudd: and 2ndly, David Goch, lord of Penmachno, in Carnarvon, son of David, lord of Denbigh, who s. his brother, Llewelyn, Prince of Wales.

The elder son,

Griffith ap Heilin, of Cochwillan, co. Carnarvon, m. Eva, dau. and heiress of Griffith ap Tudor, of Cochwillan, eldest son of Tudor ap Madoc, lord of Penrhyn, in Carnarvon grandson of Yarddwr ap Cynddelw, lord of Lernwedd Uchaf, in Carnarvonshire, Great Forester of Snowdon, by whom he acquired Cochwillan in Penrhyn, and other large possessions. Of this marriage there was issue,

Gwillym ap Griffith, who m. Hwyfa, dau. of Ievan ap Griffith, derived from Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl, in Flint, by whom he had issue,

Blethin ap Gwillym, ancestor of the Morgans of Golden Grove, co. Flint. (See Burke's Landed Gentry.)

Griffith ap Gwillym, of whom presently.

The 2nd son,

Griffith ap Gwillym, of Penrhyn, m. Generis Vychan, dau. and heiress of Madoc of Penryhn, and had

Robert ap Griffith, of whose line we have to treat.

Of this duke, Burnet says, "This year (1699) died the Marquis of Winchester, whom the King had created Duke of Bolton. He was a man of a strange mixture. He had the spleen to an high degree, and affected an extravagant behaviour; for many weeks he would not open his mouth till such an hour of the day when he thought the air was pure. He changed the day into night, and often hunted by torchlight, and took all sorts of liberties to himself, many of which were very disagreeable to those about him. He was a man of profuse expense, and of almost ravenous avarice to support that; and though he was much hated, yet he carried matters before him with such authority and success, that he was in all respects the great riddle of the age." His grace was s. by his eldest son,

Villiam-Ralph-Joseph, b. 1 July, 1887.

Lineage.

There still remain in England a few families, and Wolseley of Wolseley is one, that can prove by authentic evidence an unbroken descent from Saxon times, and shew the inheritance of the same lands in the male line from a period long anterior to the Norman conquest. A legend in the family narrates that their ancestor was given the lands of Wlselei (now Wolseley), for destroying wolves in co. Stafford, in the reign of King EDGAR, when wolves were finally destroyed in England. A pedigree compiled by Sir Richard St. George, Clarenceux, temp. JAMES I., and carried down to 1692, by Peers Mauduit, Windsor Herald, traces the family from

SIWARDUS, Lord of Wlselei, co. Stafford, who is shown by a deed sans date to have been father of

WILLIAM DE WLSELEI, who as "Willielmus, filius Siwardi Wlselei," confirmed to Stephen Davenport lands in the town of Wlselei. His son, RICHARD DE WLSELEI, granted his part of the Mill of Wlselei as "Richardus, filius Wilielmi de Wlselei." He had two sons, Stephen and Ralph.

STEPHEN DE WLSELEI, the eldest, is shown by a very ancient deed to have been father of

ROBERT DE WLSELIE, called in that deed "Robertus, filius Stephani de Wlselseiu." He was Lord of Wlselei, and was father of

ROBERT DE WLSELEI, living A.D. 1281, temp. HENRY III. and EDWARD I. His son, ROBERT DE WLSELEI, 3rd of the same name, was father of

WILLIAM DE WLSELEA, Lord of Wlselei, 30 EDWARD I. and 2 EDWARD II. He was s. by his son,

RICHARD DE WLSELEA, who had two sons, JOHN and William. The eldest,

JOHN DE WLSELEA, was Lord of Wlselea 2 EDWARD III. By Eleanor his wife, he left a son,

RALPH DE WLSELEA, living 15 and 20 RICHARD II., who had by Maud his wife, a son and successor,

THOMAS DE WLSELEA, living 39 HENRY VI. He m. Margery, dau. of William Brocton, of Longdon, co. Stafford, and had a son, family of Worsley, or De Workesley, as it was ly written, is of high antiquity, being descended ted in an old family record from Sir Elias de Wor- lord of the manor of Workesley (now Worsley, even miles from Manchester), at the time of Wil- e Conqueror. The Worsleys continued to hold large ions in Lancashire till the reign of James I. Prior it is certain the family of whom we are now treating possession of the Worsley estates, and resident at Hall in the 3rd of Henry VIII. (1507), when Sir Worsley, a younger son of Robert Worsley, of Hall, m. Anne, heiress of Sir John Leigh, of Moes, ietshire, and their descendant fell in for the lease uldercombe Priory, in the Isle of Wight, to estate Robert Worsley, succeeded about the year 1590. Their last male heir, Sir Richard Worsley, Bart. of Appuldercombe, d. in 1805. (See Burke's Extinct Baronetage.) The family of whom we treat, the Worsleys of Hovingham in Yorkshire, were of the old Lancashire stock, and retained, and still enjoy, certain manorial rights, and other quit, and chief rents, over the several manors and uninclosed lands, so long held by their progenitors in the county of Lancaster.

Lineage.

The immediate ancestor of the present possessor of Hovingham,

Thomas Worsley, Esq. of Hovingham Hall, m. Mary, dau. of Henry Arthington, Esq. of Arthington Hall, in the co. of York; and dying 3 May, 1715, left (with a dau. Mary, wife of Francis Foljambe, Esq. of Aldwarke, ancestor of Francis-John-Savile Foljambe, Esq. of Osberton and Aldwarke) a son and successor, Thomas Worsley, Esq. of Hovingham, who m. in 1718, Mary (who received a marriage present of £4000 from her near relative and neighbour, Mary, Countess of Fauconberg, 3rd dau. of the Protector), eldest dau. of Sir Thomas Frankland, 2nd bart. Henry Bellasyse, eldest son of Thomas Viscount Fauconberg, of Thirkelby), by Elizabeth his wife, dau. of Sir John Russell, Bart., by Frances his wife, 4th dau. of the Protector, Oliver Cromwell. By this lady (who d. in 1722) he had several children, of whom a younger son, the Rev. James Worsley, of Stonegrave, Yorkshire, m. Dorothy, 2nd dau. of Sir James Pennyman, Bart., and was grandfather of James-S. Stovin Pennyman, Esq. of Ormesby Hall, co. York; Mary, the eldest dau., m. Marmaduke Constable, Esq. of Wassand (see Strickland, Bart.), and Francis, the 3rd dau. m. Sir Thomas Robinson, Bart., created Lord Grantham (whose dau., Theresa, m. John Parker, Esq., created Lord Boringdon). Mr. Worsley m. 2ndly, Anne, dau. of Sir William Robinson, Bart., by whom he had two children, who d. in infancy, and also Anne, m. to William Bastard, Esq. of Kitley, Devonshire. The eldest son,

Lineage.

Recent investigations amongst the public records have shown that this family were originally named de Verdon, and they are doubtless a younger branch of the baronial house of Verdon of Alton, whose arms they bore at one time. Between 1160 and 1167, Adam, Abbot of Evesham, enfeoffed Simon, son of William de Coctune, in the manors of Wrottesley and Livington (Loynton), in Staffordshire, for which Simon released to the abbot all claim to Morton and other lands in Worcestershire. This deed was witnessed by Bertram de Verdon, the baron of Alton, and by Ruellen and Grey de Verdon. Simon was a younger brother of Ralph de Cocton or Coughton, in Warwickshire, and grandson of Ralph, the brother of Walter, the first Norman Abbot of Evesham. On the Pipe Roll of the Exchequer of 1167, Simon is returned as having paid a fine of half a mark set upon Wrottesley by the Justiciary of the Forest. He was living in 1172, but was s. before 1199 by his son,

William de Verdon, who relinquished his French patronymic and assumed the surname of de Wrottesley. He m. Ingrith, the dau. and coheir of Robert FitzAdam, of Waterfall and Butterton-on-the-Moors, and dying about 1242, was s. by his son,

Sir Hugh de Wrottesley, Knt., living between 1242 and 1275. Sir Hugh having joined the insurgent barons under Simon de Montfort, was one of those whose estates were confiscated after the Battle of Evesham, and subsequently redeemed under the Dictum of Kenilworth. He m. Idonia, dau. of Ralph de Perton, and was s. by his son,

Sir William de Wrottesley, Knt., living between 1276 and 1313. He m. 1st, Petronilla, dau. of Sir John Audley of Blore, and 2ndly, Katherine, widow of Sir Alan de Glaseley, and dau. of John l'Estrange, the Baron of Knockin. By his first wife he left a son,

Sir William de Wrottesley, Knt., who was one of those knighted with great solemnity at the high altar of Westminster, with Edward Prince of Wales, in 1306, and subsequently attended that prince into Scotland. He d. in 1320, leaving by his wife Joan, dau. of Sir Roger Basset, two sons, Hugh and Roger, under age. The eldest son,

Sir Hugh de Wrottesley, K.G., came of age in Jan. 1334, but had been previously knighted by Edward III. in 1333 whilst a minor. Sir Hugh, who served in France in 1360, became very famous, and was one of the original Knights of the Garter at the institution of that Order. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John de Hampton, of Elderstoke; 2ndly, Mabel, dau. and coheir of Sir Philip ap Rees, of Talgarth; and 3rdly, Isabella, dau. of Sir John Arderne, of Aldford, by whom he left two sons, Hugh and John. He d. in 1381, and his son Hugh dying before coming of age, he was s. by John de Wrottesley, who whilst a minor and in ward to the Abbot of Evesham, had been m. by the abbot to Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Robert de Standish. He d. in 1402, in the 23rd year of his age, leaving a son, Hugh Wrottesley, Esq., a minor. He m. Thomasine, dau. of Sir John Gresley, Knt. of Drakelowe, and d. in 1464, being s. by his son,

Sir Walter Wrottesley, Knt., high sheriff of Staffordshire, in the first year of Edward IV. He was a person of considerable note in the reign of that monarch, and a staunch adherent of Richard Neville, Earl of Warwick, the kingmaker. For his services in the cause of the Yorkists, the king granted to him several manors, which had formed part of the forfeited estates of the Earl of Wilts. In 1471 when Richard Neville restored Henry VI. to the throne, Sir Walter held Calais as the Earl's lieutenant, and after the death of the latter upon the field of Barnet, surrendered the fortress to King Edward IV., upon condition that he and the garrison should receive a full pardon for all offences. He m. Jane, dau. and heiress of William Baron, Esq. of Reading, and had with other issue,

Family of Wynn.

To the House of Gwydir, now represented maternally in one of its branches by the WILLIAMS-WYNNS of Wynnstay, must be conceded the first rank in Cambrian genealogy. This eminent family deduces male descent through their immediate ancestor, Rhodri, Lord of Anglesey, younger son of Owen Gwynedd, Prince of North Wales, from Anarawd, King of North Wales, eldest son of Rhodri Mawr, King of Wales. This last monarch, the descendant of a long line of regal ancestors succeeded to the crown of Powys on the demise, in 843, of his father, Mervyn Vrych, King of Powys, and by inheritance and marriage acquired the kingdoms of North Wales and South Wales. He was slain A.D. 876, and left, by Angharad his wife, sister and heiress of Gwgan ap Meuric, Lord of Cardigan, three sons,

I. ANARAWD AP RHODRI MAWR, of whose line we have to treat.
II. Cadell ap Rhodri Mawr, King of South Wales, ancestor of the sovereigns of South Wales.
III. Mervyn ap Rhodri Mawr, King of Powys, who d. A.D. 900, progenitor of the Sovereigns of Powys.

The eldest son,

ANARAWD AP RHODRI MAWR, King of North Wales, whose palace was at Aberfraw, in Anglesey, d. in 913, leaving issue, I. IDWAL VACH AP ANARAWD; and, II. Ellis ap Anarawd slain in 940 with his brother Idwal. Anarawd was s. by his elder son, IDWAL VOEL, King of North Wales, who was slain with his brother Elis, in 940, fighting against the Anglo-Danes. By his cousin, Avandreg, dau. of Mervyn, King of Powys, Idwal left, with other issue, an elder son, MEURIC AP IDWAL VOEL, who was taken prisoner in the defeat sustained in 977, and deprived of his eyes by Iago, who suffered him to languish in prison, where he d. leaving a son,

IDWAL AP MEURIC, who was in 992 raised by the people to his hereditary throne of North Wales, of which he had been dispossessed by Meredyth ap Owen, King of Powys. In the following year, Swane, a Danish chieftain, landed in North Wales, and Idwal in resisting him was slain. His only son,

IAGO AP IDWAL, excluded from the throne by Llewelyn ap Seisyllt, husband of Angharad, Queen of Powys, was restored in 1021, on the decease of that Prince. Iago ap Idwal, who was slain in 1037, in a battle fought between him and Griffith, King of Powys, son of Llewelyn ap Seisyllt, left an only son, CYNAN AP IAGO, excluded from the throne by Griffith ap Llewelyn, who also usurped the kingdom of Soutb Wales, Cynan ap Iago, after two gallant and unsuccessful attempts to recover his crown, d. leaving an eldest son.

GRIFFITH AP CYNAN, who, after several ineffectual endeavours to reinstate himself in his dominions, which had been usurped by Trahaern ap Caradoc, formed an alliance in 1079 with Rhys ap Tewdwr, Prince of North Wales, for the vindication of the rightful succession. The two princes met Trahaern on the mountain of Carno, where an action ensued, which terminated in the defeat and death of the usurper, and the restoration of Griffiths and Rhys. Griffith ap Cynan bore as his ensigns, gu., three lions, passant, in pale, arg., armed az. He d. in 1136, at the age of eighty-two, and lies buried on the south side of the great altar in the cathedral of Bangor, having reigned fifty-seven years. This monarch m. Angharad, dau. of Owen ap Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl (see BURKE's Landed Gentry, OWEN of Bettws), and had issue, I. OWEN GWYNEDD; II. Cadwalader ap Griffith, Lord of Caerdigan, who d. 1172, a distinguished participator in the events of his times. Griffith ap Cynan was s. in the throne by his eldest son,

OWEN GWYNEDD AP GRIFFITH, Prince of North Wales, a chivalrous and distinguished monarch, who, after a popular reign of thirty-two years, d. in Dec. 1169, and was buried at Bangor, Owen Gwynedd (who bore, Vert, three eagles displayed, in fesse, or) m. twice; 1st, Gwladys, dau. of Llowarch ap Trahaearn, Lord of Pembroke, and was, by her, father of

IORWERTH DRWYNDWN AP OWEN GWYNEDD; excluded from the throne first by his illegitimate brother Howel, and subsequently by his brother David, son of Owen Gwynedd, by his second marriage. Iorwerth, who bore, Sable, a lion, rampant, within a bordure, engrailed, or, d. at Pennant Mehangell, in Montgomeryshire; he m. the Princess Margaret, dau. of Madoc, Prince of Powys, and was father of an only son, LLEWELYN AP IORWERTH, surnamed The Great, who, in 1194, demanded, and obtained, without struggle, his hereditary crown of North Wales from his uncle David ap Owen Gwynedd. This monarch, after an eventful reign of fifty-six years, d. in 1240, and was buried in the abbey of Conway. His grandson, LLEWELYN AP GRIFFITH, the last native Sovereign Prince of Wales recognised by the English monarchs, was slain at Builth, in the valley of the Wye, 11 Dec. 1282.

Owen Gwynedd ap Griffith m. 2ndly, his cousin, Christian, dau. of Grono ap Owen ap Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl, and had by her issue, a 2nd son,

RHODRI AP OWEN GWYNEDD, Lord of Anglesey, a prince of great power and authority, who m. Agnes, dau. of Rhys ap Griffith ap Rhys ap Tewdwr Mawr, King of South Wales, and had, with other issue,

THOMAS AP RHODRI, Lord of Friw Llwyd, who m. Margaret, widow of Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion, and dau. of Einion ap Seisyllt, Lord of Merioneth, and was father of

CARADOC AP THOMAS, Lord of Friw Llwyd, who, by Eva his wife, dau. of Gwyn ap Griffith ap Beli, had issue,

GRIFFITH AP CARADOC Lord of Friw Llwyd, who m. Lenki, dau. of Llowarch Vaughan ap Llowarch Goch ap Llowarch Holbwrch, and was father of

DAVID AP GRIFFITH, Lord of Friw Llwyd, whose wife was Eva, dau. and heir of Griffith Vaughan ap Griffith of Penyfed, in Efionydd. Of the issue of this marriage, the 3rd son,

HOWEL AP DAVID, m. Efa, dau. and co-heir of Ievan ap Howel of Henllys in Cefn-y-fam, derived from Collwyn ap Tangnol Lord of Efionydd, and had,

MEREDITH AP HOWEL, who was living 26th EDWARD III. He m. Morvydd, dau. of Ievan ap David ap Trahayarn Goch, of the Royal line of South Wales, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT AP MEREDITH, who m. aged 80, Angharad, dau. of David ap Llewelyn of Cefn Melgoed, co. Caerdigan, and was father of rchbishops and Bishops bear the arms of their Sees impaled with their own family arms, without crest or motto, and with a mitre over the shield. The mitre of both Archbishops and Bishops is (with the exception of the mitre of the Bishop of Durham) exactly the same. It is a high golden cap, enriched with jewels, pointed and divided at the top, with fringed pendants hanging from the lower part: each top is surmounted by a cross, of which cross the more ancient and probably more correct form is as in the above engraving; the present usual form of the cross, however, is that of a cross-pattée. The mitre of the Bishop of Durham differs from that of the other Prelates in being encircled with a ducal coronet. As to the designation and rank of Archbishops and Bishops, see ante, INTRODUCTION.

DE HOCHEPIED.

John-Melvill de Hochepied-Larpent, Baron de Hochepied, Baron and Magna, of the Kingdom of Hungary, b. at Poonah, 17 Sept. 1860; s. his father as 9th Baron, 4 Aug. 1887.

Lineage.

The title of Baron and Magnat was conferred on this family by letters patent bearing the sign-manual of his Majesty LEOPOLD I., Emperor of Germany, under the great seal of the kingdom of Hungary, given at Vienna, the 8th April, 1704, on Daniel-John de Hochepied, with limitation to his issue, and by royal licence, dated 27 Sept. 1819, the late Baron's father and his family were authorised to avail themselves of the said honour, and to bear the title in this country.

This family, according to the aforesaid royal diploma, in which are cited certain documents dated in the year 1210, had been at that period long established in the Spanish Netherlands, and is supposed, by Jean le Carpenter, in his History, to have been a branch of the family of Boistrencourt, in the Cambresis, where, in the year 1100, it had been much distinguished, and had attained to the highest and most conspicuous stations of dignity, civil as well as ecclesiastical.

NICHOLAS DE HOCHEPIED, in the year 1575, was appointed minister and ambassador from the States-General of Holland, to several electors and potentates in Germany.

DANIEL-JOHN DE HOCHEPIED, being minister from the States-General of the Netherlands at the Ottoman Porte in 1698, distinguished himself in the negotiations which terminated in the peace of Carlowitz, 26 Jan. 1698; and having likewise by his virtues and influence obtained the liberation of many Christian slaves from Turkish servitude, the Emperor LEOPOLD conferred upon him and his descendants, male and female, the title of Baron and Magnat. He m. Clarissa-Catherine, Countess Collyer, and was father of

THOMAS DIMSDALE, M.D., of The Priory, in the co. of Hertford, b. 29 May, 1712, member for the borough of Hertford in two successive parliaments, was grandson of Robert Dimsdale, who accompanied William Penn to America in 1684, and 4th son of Sir John Dimsdale, Knt. of Theydon Gernon, in Essex, by Susanna, dau. of Thomas Bowyer, Esq. of Halbury Hall, Herts. Dr. Dimsdale, in 1745, made a voluntary and gratuitous offer of his services as assistant to the medical staff of the army sent to the north, under the command of the Duke of Cumberland, to suppress the Scotch rebellion; and he continued in the service until after the surrender of Carlisle to the king's forces, when he received the thanks of his royal highness the commander-in-chief. The ample fortune Dr. Dimsdale enjoyed had induced him to retire for some years from the practice of his profession, when his high reputation in the art of inoculating for the small-pox having reached the Empress CATHERINE of Russia, he was especially invited, in 1762, by her majesty to the Court of St. Petersburg, for the purpose of inoculating herself and the grand duke, her son, which invitation he accepted and acquitted himself so much to the satisfaction of his imperial patients, that her majesty rewarded his services with the appointment of actual councillor of state, and physician to her imperial majesty, with an annuity of £500 per annum, conferring upon him, at the same time, a Barony of the Russian empire, with the title of "Honourable" attached, to be borne by him and the eldest of his lawful descendants in succession. She likewise gave him the sum of £10,000 sterling, with £2,000 for the expenses of his journey, and presented him with a miniature of herself and the grand duke, richly set with diamonds. His 2nd son, Nathaniel, who had accompanied him to the Russian Court, had conferred upon him, at the same time, a similar dignity, with similar limitations. Her imperial majesty was further pleased to grant to both father and son, and their lawful descendants, permission to add to their family arms, a wing of the displayed black eagle of the Russian imperial coat, on a gold shield placed in the centre, with the usual helmet over the shield, surmounted by the baron's coronet. A patent in accordance was ordered by the empress to be made out, embellished with her majesty's portrait and other splendid ornaments, and delivered to the Barons Dimsdale. Baron Dimsdale m. 1st, Mary, only child of Nathaniel Brassey, Esq. of Radford House, Herts, but by that lady, who d. in 1744, had no issue. CECIL-KEARNEY.

CECIL-KEARNEY, COUNT (Robert-Cecil-Joseph-Patrick Kearney), of Ballinvilla, co. Mayo, late 97th regt., J.P. for co. Mayo, a Roman Count; m. Alice-Florence, eldest dau. of Col. William Perceval, C.B., Rifle Brigade (of a branch of the Egmont family), by Charlotte-Alice, his wife, eldest dau. of Sir William Palmer, Bart. of Palmerstown and Kenure Park, and had by her (who d. 30 June, 1897) a dau., Alice-Katharine-Irma-Perceval.

Lineage.

The family of Kearney, Kearnie, O'Kearney, or O'Cearnaigh, as it has at different eras been written, is of ancient Milesian descent, and held extensive possession in the southern counties of Ireland long before the English invasion. Kearney Castle, Cashel, erected in 1199, 1 King JOHN, one of the Towers of which is still in good preservation, and occupied as a residence, together with a large part of the city of Cashel, and extensive territories in the neighbourhood, belonged to the family, and were confiscated at various periods by the English Government in Ireland. They were hereditary keepers of "St. Patrick's Crozier," called also "Kearney Crux." In a list of tithes taken from the Registry of Cashel, 1643, on record in Dublin, appears the item, "£10 paid to Mr. Kearney for St. Patrick's Rights, as of ancient custom throughout the Province." The crozier was given up by the dau. of Kearney of Fethard, to the then Archbishop of Cashel, and is incorporated in his pastoral staff with an inscription setting forth these facts. They were staunch adherents to the House of Stuart, and amongst "The forty-nine officers"—"Enrolment of the adjudications in favour of the A.D. 1649 officers who served CHARLES I. and CHARLES II. in the wars before Cromwell came to Ireland"—we find the names of James, John, Patrick, Paul, Thomas and William Kearney. We find still existing in the northern transept of the Cathedral, forming part of the magnificent ruins of the "Rock of Cashel," a magnificent tomb of the Kearney family, and in the nave the tomb of Nicholas O'Kearney, the owner of vast estates in the neighbourhood, who d. 3 Sept. 1460.

AONGUS, brother of Eochaidh Ball-dearg, No. 24 (5th century) on the Kings of Thomond (O'Brien) pedigree was ancestor of O'Cearnaigh (Chasil), anglicised O'Kearney, Kearny, and Kearney. Fourth in descent from this Aongus, his great-great-grandson was Cernach (The Victorious), or O'Cernaigh (Chasil), 98th of the Thomond line (7th century).

The pedigree of John Kearney, b. in Galway, 1688, on record in Ulster Office, sets forth that Donehnall, or Daniel Kearney of Cashel, nephew of Nicholas No. 117 of the Thomond pedigree, (81st in descent from Milesius), had issue, METAXA-ANZOLATO.

ANDREA-RUSHOUT-NORTHWICK-PRESCOD, COUNT METAXA, b. 23 March, 1844; m. 14 Nov. 1871, Louisa-Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Thomas White, Esq. of 53, Portland Place, W., Wateringbury Hall, near Maidstone, Congelow, near Yalding, Kent, and Ryarsh Place, West Malling, and has issue, ANDREA-FRANCIS-ALBERT-COCHRANE (Count), b. 13 June, 1874.

Louisa-Evelyne-Selina-Winton-Northwick (Countess for life).

Lineage

The Metaxa family originally came from Cephalonia, one of the Ionian Islands, and having been elevated to the dignity of Counts by the Venetian Republic, had, for 200 years, been the most powerful and influential house in the island.

When the war of Greek independence broke out, Count Andrea (after whom Count Jean Baptiste's eldest son is named) was among the first to join the national movement, and in 1821, appeared at the head of a body of troops, raised at his own expense. To enable him to do this, he sold his patrimony and broke up his quiet home in order to expose his life to the gallant struggle in which he fought side by side with the deliverers of Greece. His disinterested conduct and military success, especially in the affairs of 1822, gained for him the esteem and confidence of the revolutionary chiefs, and in the same year he was deputed by the provisional government to represent them in the Congress at Verona. Under Capo d'Istria and his brother the Count Augustine, his influence increased so much, that on the latter's resignation, he was chosen to the vacant place in the Administrative Commission of the Seven, from 1832 to 1833. Under the Bavarian rule he served his country in foreign missions; in 1856 was appointed minister at Constantinople, which post he occupied until the rupture of diplomatic relations between Turkey and Greece, in consequence of the events that took place in Epirus and Thessaly.

JEAN-BAPTISTE METAXA, was a Count of the powerful Venetian Republic. This title (with many privileges) was conferred upon Capt. Anzolo Metaxà and all his male descendants in perpetuum (by Franciscus Mauriceno), on 12 July, 1691, for his eminent and valorous military achievements and political services, rendered to the Venetian Empire, in the Ionian Islands, Rumelia and Livadia, having raised several thousand men, at his personal expense, to support the Venetian Empire. The family of Metaxà's also distinguished themselves in favour of the freedom of Greece in 1821, and up to the present period hold important appointments under the government. The title of "Counts," according to the original grant of the Venetian Empire, was recognized by the British Government, in the United States of the Ionian Islands, on 3 June, 1840.

This title of Count descends by inheritance; even the daughters of a count have the right to assume the title of Countess, but it is not inherited by their descendants.

Jean-Baptiste, Count Metaxà, became naturalized on 30 Nov. 1846. He was b. 24 May, 1806; m. 30 Oct. 1841, Selina-Jane-Rancliffe, only surviving child of the late Captain Richard Barrow, 1st King's dragoon guards, granddau. of the late Sir Thomas Parkyns, Bart. of Bunny Park, co. of 1172 by Baron Walter de Riddlesford They derived urname from Gorman, chief of the sept. O'Heerin, a d historian (1420), in his Topographical Poem, page ites:—

"The territory of the Ui-Bairrche of the fine glebe
Of the race of the melodious Daire Barrach;
O'Gorman received the lands,
Rapid was he in the battle meeting."

ent mention is made of the sept in the Annals of our Masters, in which its origin is traced to the most e antiquity. O'Gormans served in the French army the 17th century; and their nobility was confirmed, on ort made to the King by his genealogist Cherin, and ers of the family were in consequence admitted to the
